Profiteering Recent government convictions of eastern merchants for profiteering has alarmed thousands of guilty dealers all over the country. Many items have been scarce and constantly advincing in price, making it easy for the unscrupulous dealer to charge exorbitant profits for merchandise he had bought earlier, at a much less figure.

Building material, paints, hardware, foods, clothing and many other necessities have been known to sell at 200 and 300 per cent profit. Now that there is relief through government prosecutions, no one should hesitate to furnish all possible evidence where excessive profits are in evidence.

Our policy of selling all items on a basis of our costs, regardless of advancing markets, makes profiteering impossible. Such methods make our stores good, safe, dependable places to trade, and consequently popular.

BOOTLEGGER MAY FIGURE IN N. Y. MURDER MYSTERY

NEW YORK, June 29—Information that John B. Elwell, turf-man and whist expert, shot to death here June 11, was slaim by man who believed he had been double crossed" in a $12,700 liquor transaction, was laid before District Attorney Swann.

Mr. Elwell, according to the in-formation, purchased the liquor during the week of his death. Several persons, whose names it was stated were furnished the district attorney, were involved. The truf-man, it was said, gave a check with the stipulation that it be held until he raised funds with which to meet it. The liquor. Swann was informed, was deliver-

Previous evidence showed, it was said, that a few days before his death, Elwell sold a race horse for $5,200 and the officials say that altogether he raised a total of more than $9,200 which, they believe, was to pay for the liquor. His failure to obtain the amount of the check, they believe, resulted in a visit from one of the men involved in the scheme and the shooting followed.

DESCENDANT OF HENRY CLAY STIRS ROW WITH WOMEN

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29 .- A declaration by Miss Laura Clay, a descendant of Henry Clay, and a delegate at large from Kentucky. that chairman Cummings' speech should not be indorsed tonight threw a caucus of women dele-gates into an uproar. Eventually the speech was indorsed.
All seemed serene in the meeting, and the chairman's speech was being complimented highly when Miss Clay suddenly arose and launched an attack on the league of nations portion of the address.

"I counsel you to go slow," she said with great emphasia. "We never should endorse a speech for the league of nations without reservations. I strongly favor them."
Immediately prominent women delegates counseled hurriedly among themselves as to the advisability of answering Miss Clay on the floor, but it was decided to say nothing then. The speech formally was indorsed and later Mrs. Kellogg Fairbanks, of Chicago, Mrs. Anne O'Hagan Shinn, of New York, Mrs. Beyerly B. Nunford, of Richmond, Va., and Mrs. Kate Trenholm Abrams, of South Carolina, issued statements warmly approving it.

Not since Abraham Lincoln's day has there been so distinguish-ed an expression of so exalted an ideal," Mrs. Fairbanks declared.
